

PEEL ST ADELAIDE

WORDS LUCY ANDERSON

PARALLEL TO LEIGH STREET, THE CITY'S HIPSTER HAVEN, PEEL STREET IS NOW OFFERING A TEMPTING BUNCH OF BARS AND EATERIES AS PART OF THE ADELAIDE CBD'S RECENT TRANSFORMATION.

PEEL STREET RESTAURANT

One of the precinct's most keenly awaited openings was the aptly named Peel Street Restaurant. Run by acclaimed chef Jordan Theodoros and business partner Ben McLeod, Peel Street has been packed since day one, with diners loving the full-flavoured, simple style of cooking. The same team behind Aquacaf, the Peel Street crew are dishing up really simple, fresh food with a focus on Middle Eastern flavours. Notable bites include the roasted Jerusalem artichokes and pears; either with hazelnuts and blue cheese or fennel glazed with orange, dried olive and chilli. Those after something more robust should definitely not go past the mulloway fish pasty or southern fried chicken with lemon mayo. Peel Street Restaurant is serving up vibrant, flavoursome dishes for breakfast, lunch and dinner, but make sure you book to avoid missing a table at what is arguably Adelaide's hottest new dining destination.

CLEVER LITTLE TAILOR

A new addition to the bar scene, Clever Little Tailor attracts a diverse clientele from the after-work crowd to the night owls. The premises, once the loading dock for definitive Adelaide department store, Fletcher Jones, now boasts exposed stone walls, high ceilings and clever use of levels to create a sense of space. Clever Little Tailor focuses on luxe liquor served in an intimate setting, with a large selection of quality and classic spirits as well as some microbrewery tap beer and wine. The bar snacks are taken care of by Adelaide Central Market charcuterie Lucia's and include delectable smoked almonds, duck rillettes and prosciutto. Sink into a leather booth, ask one of the delightful bar staff to whip you up a cocktail, and soak up the ambience.
